Center for Counseling and Disability Services

How to use the services

Tohoku University
Center for Counseling and Disability Services
What is the Center for Counseling and Disability Services?

The Center for Counseling and Disability Services provides counseling and support services for the wellbeing of the students. Students may encounter various difficulties and feel anxious with their campus life. If such instances arise, please do not hesitate to contact this Center.

The Center has two Departments, one for counseling and one for disability services. Please feel free to contact the departmental office that best suits your needs.

In addition to providing personal counseling services, the Center provides consultation services to parents, faculty, staff, and friends.

Counseling Office

The Counseling Office offers appropriate counseling to university students about problems in their everyday lives, including academic work, future plans, interpersonal relationships, personal traits, mental health, etc. Please feel free to use this service to talk about your concerns or just to ask a simple question.

Disability Services Office

The Disability Services Office provides information and advice on disability issues and facility support for students with visual, auditory, physical, internal, and/or developmental disabilities.

Consultations regarding problems and concerns with their campus life will be held to clarify the needs of the student, and we will try to solve those needs by working together with the various units concerned and school personnel of individual departments for necessary support. Please feel free to consult us.
Counseling Office

Services

Counseling

The counselor talks with you in order to help you organize your thoughts and feelings and find ways to solve problems that work for you.

Consultation

We also provide consultation to family, friends, significant others, fellow circle members, and laboratory teaching staff. Counselors not only help you think about your own difficulties but also the problems that people around you face.

Referrals

Depending on the nature of your problem, we may refer you to a more appropriate institution, faculty, or staff.

Other

Students may use the Group Room at the Counseling Office to calm down and spend some time alone.

How to Use the Services

You can either come directly to the Center for Counseling and Disability Services or arrange an appointment by phone or e-mail. Consultations are conducted more smoothly if an appointment is made in advance. Counseling sessions are free of charge. Consultations in English are available.

Disability Services Office

Services

Individual Consultation

We listen to difficulties and individual needs and then provide the following supports and services to respond to the diverse needs of people with disability.

Support for Study and Campus Life

- Classes and examinations: Coordination for alternative measures for practical skills-based courses, taking examinations in a quiet or private location, etc.
- Assurance of receiving information: Providing note-takers, assistance with reading, etc.
- Support equipment: Providing FM hearing aid systems and portable Braille terminals, etc.
- Offering a break room

On-Campus Supporters

On-campus supporters may help individuals receive various types of support, including assurance of receiving information, and assistance with moving and writing.

Barrier-Free Measures

We will improve facilities in order to make accessibility around campus more convenient.
